

Scholarships and financial aid

At IQS, people come first and we hope anyone who is motivated and meets the admission requirements can come to study with us regardless of their economic situation or their country of origin.

Our admissions process is currently quite advanced and Academic Excellence scholarships have already been awarded for the 2020-2021 academic year. However, due to the increase in demand for financial aid caused primarily by families affected by COVID-19, IQS has strengthened its scholarship fund and extended the financial aid application deadline. If you have a solid academic record and your family's financial situation requires aid or your family has been directly affected by the consequences of the pandemic, we encourage you to apply for a scholarship to continue advancing your future.
